

Product Description

It's time to pump your community up! With the Royal Triple Station Chest Press installed in your public space, every high school student or adult can sit down and start pumping away to strengthen their chest, shoulders, arms, and core. This workout station can be used for multiple exercises that focus on different muscles, allowing the exerciser to switch up their workout, avoiding boredom and increasing strength in targeted areas. Clear instructions are posted on the Royal Triple Station Chest Press that explain each exercise in detail, reducing the risk of equipment misuse and injury. Like the best park equipment, the Royal Triple Station Chest Press is designed for use throughout the year. Made with powder-coated steel, it is built to last spring, summer, fall, and winter for years to come. In other words, this is a great long-term investment in pumping up your community's excitement for healthy, regular exercise.
