Product Description

The 4-foot High Boulder Climber allows children to feel as though they are explorers climbing the crest of a rocky summit in the wilderness. This climber bears a striking resemblance to actual rocks, thanks to its highly detailed texture. It has plenty of small crags and ledges, which give children convenient places to step as they climb. The flat tops of the 'rocks' in this structure allow kids to comfortably maintain their balance as they stand on them. The 4-foot tall Boulder Climber has a large plateau in top, which makes an especially nice place for kids to sit and hang out. The height makes it safe for children between the ages of 5 and 12 to climb it without any assistance, but for safety purposes it is still highly recommended that a proper loose fill safety surfacing, like wood mulch or rubber, be installed around this structure's Safety Zone.
